

Northcote Wine List

Welcome to our wine list, which we sincerely hope you will enjoy. I felt it was appropriate to introduce our list and explain some of the thinking and passion behind our selection and our layout.

The Northcote list has been carefully put together with the enjoyment of food and wine at the heart of its selections. We have put together a comprehensive cross section that should be able to suit all food and wine matching wishes, provide interest and intrigue to you from all over the world, whilst covering most grape varietals and styles.

The list opens with a superb selection of aperitifs starting with a classic range of Sherries, White Port and Madeira's. We are especially proud of our Champagnes and Sparkling Wines which have been carefully chosen to provide the classic aperitif but also options to match sparkling wine with food! Northcote is delighted to champion the house of Louis Roederer, simply one of the finest and most revered producers. Their range is exemplary with styles that should please any Champagne connoisseur - as an aperitif or for enjoying with some of Nigel's more elegant dishes.

The list then proposes some of our favourite wines by the glass (which we change regularly) combining our House Selection and also the Seasonal Gourmet Wines which pair superbly with the Gourmet and Tasting menus. These wines will also give the opportunity for quality drinking by the glass and for those who can only enjoy one glass, we have a few beltors to choose from!

The rest of the list takes you on an intriguing journey through the Old and New Worlds, with a diversity that presents many unusual combinations for you to enjoy. We have an outstanding halves list that is the envy of many a restaurant and offers our single diners some real treats, but more so allows a half to be taken during dinner leaving a little room for a digestif in the bar!

Lastly we must encourage you all to take advantage of our Dessert wine list with a superb selection of unusual and rare wines, which will round off an exceptional dinner with a true memory of why food and wine work so well as a marriage.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who assist us behind the scenes with guidance from Julian Kaye of The Wright Wine Company at Skipton, Nick Adams MW, Guy Cliffe from Louis Roederer and Danny Cameron for his input into our favourite region of Portugal, without such a great group of enthusiasts we would not be able to assemble such a great list for you to indulge in.

Our dedicated wine team, lead by Head Sommelier Adam Pawlowski, will be delighted to help you with your choice - or assist you where you wish to be advised - or just simply enhance your experience with a little knowledge. Please feel free to ask.

Ultimately the purpose is purely to enhance your experience, on behalf of Nigel and I we seriously hope that our wines and their diversity will manage to do exactly that.

We sincerely hope you enjoy every sip and every mouthful!

Craig

Louis Roederer has always been a firm favourite with us at Northcote, which we now proudly present as our house Champagne.

The House of Louis Roederer was founded in 1776 and has been owned by the same family since 1819. The house produces wines from its own vineyards, of a quality and style placing them among the most sought after wines in the world.

Owning over 200 acres of the finest vineyards enables this "Grande Marque" to be self sufficient for at least two thirds of its own production.

A solid know-how, the patient workings of time and a respect for the silent ageing process all contribute to the subtle and complex profile of Louis Roederer champagnes. The meticulous care that goes into each wine, clearly distinguishes Louis Roederer above all the rest.

CHAMPAGNE in MAGNUMS

In Champagne, when the Champagne houses pour you a glass of their wine, it is nearly always done so out of magnum. This is because it is generally accepted that champagne is at its best when made and matured in this size bottle. There is finer ratio of wine to the lees (that is the yeast which the wine ages on to give you that lovely biscuit – or brioche – character). In addition, because of the greater volume (to surface area) you tend to get finer, smaller bubbles which creates a creamier sensation on your palate. They also allow the wine to age magnificently.

We have a fine selection of magnums and would recommend these to enhance any special celebratory occasion, and especially where you have a larger party.

ROSÉ CHAMPAGNE

Rosé Champagne is more than an elegant and stylish drink. The black grape element in the blend makes for a fuller, fruitier style, which marries well with even quite rich fish dishes, especially salmon. Also an attractive alternative with English summer fruits and berries.

NON VINTAGE CHAMPAGNE

These wines are made from a blend of different vintage years and exemplify the "house" style of each producer. They are blended and aged to be drunk upon release. Our selection offers Champagnes of both the highest quality and diversity of styles. If you enjoy a delicate and refined style, we would like to draw your attention to the Blanc de Blancs wines, made from 100% Chardonnay, which is the most elegant of all the grapes used in Champagne blends.

The Mumm comes from the single Grand Cru vineyard of Cramant, which many consider to be the finest Chardonnay Village in Champagne. It is also bottled under slightly less pressure, in order to enhance its marriage with food. By contrast the Laurent Perrier Ultra Brut is bone dry and has an exhilarating, zesty style which is both a dramatic aperitif, but also a superb accompaniment to (shell)fish and delicate entrée dishes.

VINTAGE & PRESTIGE CUVÉE CHAMPAGNE

These wines are the ultimate expression of a Champagne house, made only in very good years. Many will need little introduction, but it is worth highlighting how fine the 1995, 1996 and 1998 vintages were - and how perfectly mature they are now for drinking. If you prefer a slightly fresher and zestier style then 2002 is considered to be the finest vintage to date post millennium.

Pol Roger, Vilmart and Taittinger are the more delicate styles, whilst Charles Heidsieck has lovely honey touches. Louis Roederer, Bollinger and Krug are all full bodied and more red grape oriented. The Bollinger Veilles Vignes Francaises is one of the rarest of all Champagne - made from 100% ungrafted Pinot Noir vines and often only 500 cases a year are made!

All these vintage wines - due to their quality and nature - are the perfect style of Champagne to accompany food.

FRANCE

ALSACE

Alsace stands apart from the rest of France and has endured a history of mixed ownership, before finally becoming part of the Country at the end of the First World War. Surprisingly, with the exception of the Languedoc, Alsace enjoys the sunniest and driest climate in the whole of France. This is due to its location to the east of the Vosges Mountains, which create a rain shadow for the region.

Alsace was one of the earliest wine regions in France to focus solely on quality (over quantity). It also pioneered the use and promotion of single grape varieties – predominantly white and led by the majestic Riesling. Here is the home to France's greatest range of "aromatic" white wines, with a supporting cast which includes Gewürztraminer, Pinot Gris (aka Grigio), Muscat and Pinot Blanc.

The wines are generally fully fermented out and with their purity of fruit, body, fine acidity and absence of oak, they are exhilarating partners to food. They unquestionably deserve far greater acclaim than they receive.

BORDEAUX

With the exception of Champagne, no other region has managed to build such an enviable reputation through the combination of the high quality production and hard PR of just a small number of its top producers.

With over 40,000 estates it is an enormous production area and yet it is only the top 2% of Chateaux which carry the imagery and kudos of the region. Nothing would be easier in a Bordeaux section of a wine list than simply selecting a beauty parade of the top names, many of which are now at eye watering prices.

However, we have worked hard to put together a selection of classical, but affordable, wines that combine the best of their individual regions, with many from top vintages and at their peak for drinking. We would especially like to recommend the extensive range of "Second Wines" – we have examples of these from all the main Bordeaux communes on the list. These are all from top estates and selected from younger vines and lots – but their provenance, pedigree and above all drinkability are outstanding.

The section, overall, is geographically structured, by commune, and focused around a selection of "Left Bank" Cabernet Sauvignon based and "Right Bank" Merlot based wines. Left Bank wines tend to be more tannic and structured whilst the Right Bank are slightly softer and more supple, but without any loss of power.

Bordeaux, whether red, white or sweet, is indisputably a wine made for food - and this echoes the whole ethos at Northcote.

BURGUNDY

Compared to Bordeaux, Burgundy is a much more complex – and for some – interesting region. A patchwork of famous vineyards cluster around world renowned Villages in what, thankfully, remains one of France's most unspoilt viticultural areas. Here is the spiritual home of both the Chardonnay and Pinot Noir grapes and few regions can compare to La Grola, Allegrini, Veneto, Italy, 2006o Burgundy for producing both dry white and red wines of world class, side by side.

The key to enjoying Burgundy is to think Producer first, then Vineyard and Village, then Vintage. Great producers tease out remarkable flavours and define the pure diversity and expression of Burgundy's wonderful terroir, and often in less fashionable years. We have done an enormous amount of work on the range and selection of Burgundies for the new Northcote list and believe it is the finest offering we have ever put together.

Whether you enjoy the steely, low oak emphasis of a Chablis or the weight and texture of a Cote de Beaune, we have a broad and very fine selection of white Burgundy. Equally, the reds encapsulate all the hedonistic, yet refined and diverse elegance of Pinot Noir. The list of producers reads nothing short of a "who's who" in the region and we recommend these wines unreservedly and - as ever at Northcote - with food and wine pairing in mind.

LOIRE VALLEY

The Loire is France's longest river (at over 1,000 kms) and probably its most beautiful – no wonder it was the holiday home of the pre revolution aristocracy and why they built over 300 grand Châteaux along its banks. So much so, that in 2000, UNESCO added the central part of the Loire to its list of World Heritage Sites.

With its more marginal, northerly climate the Loire is home to some of the most elegant and racy white wines in the world, although it also produces underrated sparkling, red and rosé wine. With over 87 wine producing areas there is much to choose from. The most famous of these are probably Sancerre (and its near neighbour Pouilly Fumé), which are the spiritual homes of Sauvignon Blanc, and Vouvray - the home of Chenin Blanc, which makes a complete range of styles from bone dry to succulently sweet. Tucked away in this vinous vein of France are numerous rarefied delights, such as Savennières, Jasnières, (sweet) Coteaux du Layon (red) Chinon and one of the UK's long term restaurant allies – Muscadet.

RHÔNE VALLEY

The Rhône River is not the longest in France it is arguably the most important. The Rhône was the very gateway by which the Romans brought the vine into France and, from there, introduced it across the country.

As this majestic river sweeps through Lyon it starts its twisted journey into the heart of the wine country. Precipitous granite vineyards hug the river – from the roasted slopes of Côte-Rôtie, past Condrieu before turning around the famous hill of Hermitage. Tiny though these vineyards are it is the very heart of this Appellation and the spiritual home of the Syrah (and Viognier) grape. The reds of this area are, at their best, the most richly structured and refined style.

To the south the river the landscape softens and its pinnacle is indisputably found at Châteauneuf-du-Pape. Here the great red grape of the southern Rhône – Grenache – is at its zenith and these fine wines rival the best of the northern Rhône. With their bold red fruit compote and Indian spice flavours, they are completely different in style, but just a good and – as with the wines of the North – perfect partners for classical main and full bodied dishes.

LANGUEDOC - ROUSSILLON

As the biggest area of France under vine, Languedoc-Roussillon is offers a vast variety of wines. Often overlooked in favour of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Rhone, Languedoc-Roussillon provides a vast diversity in styles of wine ranging from still, sparkling, dry through to lusciously sweet Vin Doux Naturel.

Thanks to the flexibility of the Vin de Pays classification, producers have the freedom and opportunity to experiment with different grape varieties such as Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay and Viognier; all successful across France but displaying the unique style and warmth from this Southerly Mediterranean region.

Carignan, Mauzac and Piquepoul are considered to be indigenous to the area and surely define Languedoc-Roussillon as a classic French wine region.

Languedoc-Roussillon can offer a wine fit for any occasion and their wines can enhance many a meal. Elegant seafood and poultry dishes work beautifully with the freshness of Picpoul de Pinet. Hearty and rich red meat dishes are outstanding with Fitou or Corbières. Sweet desserts and cheeses work wonderfully with Vin Doux Naturel.

ITALY

When thinking of Italy immediate images of rugged beauty, sunburnt terracotta, vast fields of olive trees and an amazing diversity of wine styles and regions come to mind. And no wonder when you consider that this bizarrely shaped country stretches from parallel with Burgundy in the North to touching North Africa in the South.

Between these points lie nearly 400 defined wine regions (DOC or DOCG), 120 IGT (generic production areas akin to Vin de Pays in France), and well over 100 different grape varieties to play with. No wonder trying to understand Italy, vinously, has been described as like nailing jelly to a wall!

The good news is that we have done the hard work and focused on what matters most – the quality and typicity of the wine in bottle and their ability to marry with food. And can there be any other country (apart from France perhaps) where the marriage of food and wine is more prevalent than in Italy. Spectacularly diverse reds are rightly regarded as universal partners to most savoury and fuller bodied dishes, apart from the obvious pasta tango. However, it is the white wines of Italy which have come on by leaps and bounds in the last twenty years and are now at the forefront of refreshing drinking allied to new partners for entrée and lighter courses.

Like Burgundy the quality of the producer is vital and we have selected a cross section of the very best and each showcases the combination of their winemaking talents with beautiful expressions of their vineyard origins. The length and breadth of the country is covered and you just might find this the most exciting set of wines on the whole list.

SPAIN

Today when studying the wines of Spain you are looking at no more than a snapshot, such is the pace at which the country's wine industry is changing. This is somewhat of a paradox when you consider how old the history of wine is here. More ironic still when you realise that Spain has more land planted under vine than any other country in Europe, even if it produces less volume of wine than Italy or France. This spirit has infected most areas, including some of the more traditional such as Rioja and Ribera del Duero. Here, fruitier and more refined oaked reds are being produced – and even Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc are being allowed in the blend of Rioja whites!

The evidence of the pace of change is in the number of new DOs (or defined regions of origin) which have emerged in the last few decades. Amongst these the crisp, tantalisingly fruity, lighter bodied and seafood friendly wine of Rias Baixas are of particular note, contrasted by the mighty reds of Priorat where gnarled old vine Garnacha (Grenache) and Cariñena (Carignan) make Spain's most hedonistic reds. All the reds of Spain are made for food – and bold food flavours, in general.

Finally, please do not forget Sherry – uniquely Spanish and simply the greatest white fortified wine in the world. Kick any preconceptions and stereotypical images into the long grass – dry Sherry, along with Champagne, is the ultimate aperitif - but also remarkably food friendly, especially with any fish, which is smoked or has a shell on it. The richer Amontillados and Olorosos are dreamy accompaniments to white cheese and refined soups.

PORTUGAL

Here at Northcote, we have long championed the finest estate-bottled wines from Portugal. In fact, the Association of Portuguese Wine Importers called us "pioneers", when we the first ever recipient of their Wines of Portugal Award. These days, we still boast one of the finest selections on any UK list, and you can experiment here with total confidence, that each wine has its own delicious story to tell.

Do try either Quinta do Ameal's Loureiro or Soalheiro's Alvarinho as perfect whites to begin a meal: each is the best of their (grape) type from Portugal's verdant North West, and full of zesty expression. And for something red, we would understand any choice you might make from the now famous Douro region, but we also have a soft spot for the Southern Alentejo, whose vibrant red fruit characters are perfectly expressed by Monte de Peceguina.

GERMANY

The fine wines of Germany are unique in the world. Light in body (but remarkably concentrated), low in alcohol, and incredibly fruity they are everything, in theory, that the modern day white wine drinker should be looking for.

With the possible exception of the Alsace, Germany produces the finest Riesling on the planet. As importantly these days the wines are made to accompany food, as much as being a formidable aperitif. These are wines made to break you away from your shackles and indulge with light, savoury and spicy dishes. From the great estates in the Mosel, Rheingau and Nahe in particular come some of the most profound wines of the world.

AUSTRIA

Of all the countries in Europe Austria has done more than any to raise its standards and profile over the last 25 years. Focusing on a dramatic reductions in yields and planting in top sites to the (east) of the country in particular, the results have been nothing short of dramatic.

Today, Austria produces a range of world class wines – mainly white – both dry and luxuriantly sweet. Its home grown variety – Grüner Veltliner – is a lovely crisp and mildly spicy wine, whilst its dessert wines are simply hedonistic in their tight rope balance between sweetness, super ripe fruit and vitality.

And finally, for a change, please do try the home grown red variety Blaufränkisch – an echo of Italy with its flavour of ripe black cherries and spice, medium tannin levels and crisp acidity, it is a superb all round accompaniment to any savoury main winter dish.

AUSTRALIA

If you were to place Australia on top of Western Europe, it would stretch from Ireland in the west to cover Turkey in the east; and from Sweden in the north to North Africa in the south. This vast island is dominated by remote, wild and desert conditions with people – and vines – living almost exclusively on main coastal points.

The modern Australian wine industry only really emerged in the 1970s, and today, Australia is the 4th largest exporter of wine with over 60 designated wine producing regions and 2,000 producers. The vast majority of these are found in the South-East corner, although fine wines are also made around Perth in Western Australia. The most important area is South Australia, followed by Victoria and New South Wales, although there are many new and exciting areas emerging – such as Tasmania.

Plantings are dominated by Shiraz (aka Syrah), Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay, with top Shiraz, in particular, commanding worldwide attention and reputation. This includes developing a worldwide reputation for the best New World Rieslings, from the Clare Valley in particular. The most important development, in many ways, has been the trend for vines to be planted in cooler areas and for more refined and food friendly styles to be produced as a result.. Other examples of these include Eden Valley in the Barossa, Polish Hills in Clare Valley and Mornington Peninsular in Victoria.

As ever with finer wines it is as much about the producer as the area and the focus of the new selection on the Northcote list is to combine the best of both aspects, whilst providing full scope for food and wine pairing.

NEW ZEALAND

It is remarkable to think that the modern New Zealand wine industry is no more than 40 years old. Back in the early 1970's the world was captivated by the vibrant and mouth watering flavours they discovered in the new style Sauvignon Blancs from the Marlborough region. Now these wines are recognised as one of the world's classic styles.

Since then the whole industry has moved on at lightening and very diverse pace and the reputation of New Zealand has installed itself as one of the finest and, above all, purist producers in the world. Because of their relatively marginal climate these wines are simply the most food friendly of all to come out of the New World.

Top Sauvignons are now more sophisticated than ever, being very refined and mineral, whilst their Pinot Noirs, in particular, have attained world class stature and today challenge Burgundy head on in quality, if different in style. This is also the land of exhilarating aromatic white varietals, led by Pinot Gris, Riesling and Gewürztraminer.

And Marlborough is no longer the pre-eminent region - there are now over a dozen high quality, specifically designated wine regions – each gaining reputations for key varieties and styles. Examples include the fast emerging Marlborough neighbour Nelson (for refined whites and classical Pinot Noir), Central Otago (for richly textured Pinot Noir) and Martinborough for Pinot Noir and Gris. Not unsurprisingly world class producers have emerged – two model examples being Felton Road, who's Pinot Noirs set the industry standard alongside Ata Rangi, who also make what might just be the best Pinot Gris out of the New World.

These vineyards provide the majority of grapes in order to have maximum control over the quality of the wines and thereby maintaining their philosophy of controlling all stages of production.
